Rexford Industrial Realty Supplier Code of Conduct

Introduction

Rexford Industrial Realty, Inc.'s ("Rexford") core values guide and shape the way we do business, including with our suppliers and partners. In line with these values, we strive to develop relationships with our suppliers by engaging productively and prioritizing integrity. This Code of Supplier Business Conduct and Ethics ("Code") represents another way we are working to promote fair and ethical conduct throughout our value chain.

Purpose and Expectations

This Code contains general guidelines for the standards to which we hold our suppliers. Suppliers include vendors, subcontractors, consultants, and all representatives. We depend on our suppliers to operate in alignment with our minimum standards and expectations of how to operate ethically, outlined in this Code. We expect our suppliers and their representatives to adhere and self-monitor their compliance with this Code.

Honest, Ethical, and Legal Conduct

Compliance with Laws

In conducting business consistent with the highest standards of business ethics, Rexford suppliers are expected to also comply with all applicable federal and local laws.

Anti-Corruption, Anti-Bribery, Anti-Money Laundering

Rexford suppliers must not make any improper payments and must comply with the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, the UK Bribery Act, the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development ("OECD") Convention on Anti-Bribery, and other applicable local anti-bribery laws and international antibribery standards (collectively, the "Anti-Bribery Regulations").

Competition and Antitrust laws

In maintaining fair competition and business practices, Rexford suppliers must comply with all antitrust, monopoly, and competition or cartel laws specific to their country, state of locality in which they operate. U.S. antitrust laws forbid actions such as price fixing, limitations of supply, allocation of business, boycott, and tying, and suppliers within U.S. boundaries must adhere to these laws.

Insider Trading

Suppliers may not directly or indirectly trade securities, including Rexford's securities, if they are made aware of material non-public information. Information is "material" if a reasonable investor would consider it important in a decision to buy, hold or sell securities. Information is "non-public" if it has not been made generally available to the public by means of a press release or other means of widespread distribution.

Conflict of Interest

Suppliers should avoid conflicts of interests and situations that give the appearance of conflicts of interest. Suppliers must not seek to create conflicts of interest for Rexford, its directors, executives, employees, contractors, or agents. Conflicts of interest can include suppliers engaged in outside employment, improper personal benefits, financial interests, loans of other financial transactions, service on boards and committees, and actions of family members.

Gifts and Entertainment

When doing business with Rexford, suppliers may, for legitimate business purposes, occasionally, offer gifts and entertainment to, and accept them from Rexford employees in accordance with Rexford's Gifts and Entertainment policies within the Rexford Code of Business Ethics and Conduct. Gifts and entertainment should never be used to gain an improper advantage and should never be offered to any U.S., state, local, or foreign government employees.

Human Rights

As outlined in Rexford's Human Rights Policy, suppliers are required to comply with our policy by committing to respecting basic human rights, freedoms, and standards of treatment regarded as belonging to all people.

Employment Practices

Freely Chosen Employment

Rexford pursues fair employment practices in all aspects of its business. Non-discriminatory practices coupled with humane working conditions that protect worker health and safety are expected of all suppliers.

Child Labor and Forced Labor

Rexford prohibits the exploitation of children and use of illegal child labor or forced labor as outlined in its Human Rights Policy, which is applicable to all suppliers. Workers must be no younger than the minimum age of employment under applicable law.

Labor and Wage Laws

Suppliers must comply with all applicable wage, workhour, overtime, and benefit laws.

Harassment, Discrimination, and Fair Treatment

All individuals should have equal opportunity and fair treatment, without discrimination because of race, ethnicity, color, religion, age, national origin, sex (including pregnancy), sexual orientation, age, disability, veteran status, or other characteristic protected by law at supplier companies.

Safe and Healthy Work Environment

Safe and healthy work environments are rooted in compliance with applicable safety and health laws and regulations and suppliers are expected to comply accordingly. Threats, threatening behavior or acts of violence against employees, visitors, guests, or other individuals are not tolerated by Rexford, and suppliers should apply this same standard.

Grievance Mechanisms

Suppliers should adopt grievance mechanisms by which their employees can raise good-faith workplace concerns without fear of retaliation.

Confidentiality and Data protection

Confidential and Proprietary Information

Confidential information includes all non-public information that might be of use to competitors, or if disclosed harmful to Rexford or its customers. Suppliers must safeguard all confidential information except when disclosure is authorized or legally mandated. Suppliers are encouraged to be particularly careful when in public places if discussing information related to Rexford or its customers.

Intellectual Property

Suppliers must maintain the integrity and confidentiality of intellectual property and comply with all intellectual property ownership rights.

Records Retention

To ensure accountability, suppliers are expected to create and maintain complete and accurate records and to retain and delete records in accordance with applicable law.

Data Privacy Laws

Suppliers are expected to comply with all applicable federal and state data protection, privacy and information security laws and regulations. In addition, suppliers must implement and maintain data protection practices.

Data Breaches

Suppliers should promptly notify Rexford if there is reason to believe that any confidential information that they are handling on behalf of Rexford has been destroyed, lost, altered, accessed or disclosed by an unauthorized third party.

Environmental Practices

Environmental Sustainability

Rexford recognizes the importance of environmental sustainability and of taking action regarding climate change as it is impactful to the sustainable development of local communities. Rexford actively manages its greenhouse gas emissions, energy consumption, water consumption, waste management, environmental compliance, and sustainable procurement and building materials sourcing, as stated in the Environment and Climate Change Policy and encourages suppliers to do the same. Where requested and practicable, suppliers are expected to provide environmental, social and governance (ESG) data to Rexford to assist with Rexford's ESG reporting and strategy development.

Environmental Laws and Permits

Suppliers must comply with all applicable environmental laws and regulations regarding hazardous materials, air emissions, waste, wastewater discharges, and regulated substances while maintaining all required environmental permits and registrations.

Environmental Product and Process Standards

Rexford regularly reviews its purchasing practices to ensure alignment with its ESG strategy and avoid potential conflicts. Suppliers are encouraged to not only utilize but provide materials, products, and services that are aligned with sustainability certifications and best practices.

Supplier Grievance Process

Suppliers are expected to provide a confidential and secure mechanism for employees to raise grievances. Suppliers who believe our employees or anyone acting on our behalf has engaged in illegal conduct or inconsistent with our ESG policies should report the matter to their Rexford representative. All grievances received are taken seriously, independently considered, and thoroughly investigated.
